Preacher's Ponderings

Recently, theologian and philosopher, Jean Vanier, died. Vanier changed our perspective on people living on the margins of society. Through his exploration of humanity, faith and compassion he established L'Arche, a community where people with intellectual and physical disabilities would know that they were accepted, loved and valued, contributing members of society. His prime motivation was love—to love was to be like God, who is love. Vanier reminds us that in each moment, we are called to love God with our whole being and to love our neighbor as ourselves. What might that look like in your life? ~ Chaplain Mike Dyck
