Preachers Ponderings

Frederick Buechner writes about the wisdom in old age as coming to see the people around as being on the same journey and wishing them well. The irony being that it takes those 60, 70, or 80 years to finally bring that about--for us to view our fellow travellers with the compassion and grace that God has had for since we took our first steps. This month, we continue the celebration of Jesus' resurrection and its transformational power over us. May that transformation include a growing love for each neighbour of ours, those on the same journey towards eternity. May we wish them well.~ Michael Dyck, Chaplain
